

Tree Committee to be formed

On May 1, 2000 City Council held a Work Session with a number of citizens that represent a broad spectrum of opinion on the City's proposed Urban Forestry Program and decided a committee would be necessary to better develop a program that was representative of the various community interests involved.

It was also determined that pursuing the Tree City U.S.A. designation should not be a driving force in setting policy.

In early June Council will consider a list of possible committee members, determine the size of the committee, and will set a list of policy objectives Council would like the committee to consider. ☐

Milwaukie's Local Leaders

Stepping aside

For Tracy Cook, it was fighting a flag lot in the Linwood Neighborhood. Patty Wisner wanted to slow traffic in her Lake Road Neighborhood. Darlene Walsh got involved when a shooting shook the Ardenwald-Johnson Creek Neighborhood.

And Jean Johnson helped create the Ardenwald-Johnson Creek Association when she petitioned City Hall to rename the street she lived on to Johnson Creek Boulevard more than 50 years ago.

The reasons that drew these residents' involvement are different, but their commitment has been the same. But each has decided to make way for others, and will step aside in June.

With almost 70 years of Neighborhood Leadership among them, they each say they will leave their respective posts with enduring friendships and accomplishments they can be proud of.

Patti says she's proud to have been chair during the great Light Rail debate that was going on in Milwaukie in the late 1990's.

She believes that her Neighborhood Association went great lengths to represent all sides, and to present Lake Road residents with the most comprehensive information so each resident could take an informed position.

Tracy says she's proud of the kind of achievements her Neighborhood made while she served as chair.

"The ultimate theme throughout each of our Neighborhood Grants has been to support children," Tracy said. "The most important thing for me is to support our youth."

Jean said her involvement as treasurer has lead to friendships that are almost half a century old. She explains that she met her good friend Lillie

South Corridor Study slows down

In response to citizens' concerns that the study was moving too quickly, Metro and its partner agencies (Milwaukie, Portland, Oregon City, Clackamas County, Tri-Met and ODOT) have slowed down the South Corridor study schedule and added more opportunities for public comment.

Community and neighborhood involvement is being led by three citizen working groups, each representing the interests of the major segments of the Corridor. Last month the working groups met several times to learn about the possible alternatives (Commuter rail, River Transit, High Occupancy Vehicle Lanes, Peak Period Pricing, Separated Busway, and Bus Rapid Transit, which includes Intelligent Transportation Systems.) Each alternative is being evaluated in terms of its environmental, engineering, financial, and travel time feasibility. The group also met with a

Interim Councilor excited by Milwaukie's future

At the April 18, 2000 City Council meeting Brian Newman raised his right hand, took the oath of office, and became a Milwaukie City Councilor.

Brian's appointed term will expire in December of 2000, and is filling the position that was vacated when Rob Kappa stepped down in March.

Brian was one of four Milwaukie residents that applied for the interim position, and was selected after undergoing a rigorous interview process.

Brian was born in Oak Grove, but his family moved away to live in Connecticut and then Texas. But Brian returned to the Northwest for his schooling, where he studied political science at Willamette University. Upon graduating, Brian headed to Washington D.C. where he worked for the Department of Agriculture for several years. He then crossed the nation for a second time, and came back to the west coast and worked for the City of Portland as a transportation planner. Brian returned to school a few years later, heading to the University of California at Berkeley where he earned a masters degree in land use planning.

Brian now works as a planner for a Portland architectural firm, and is serving as the director of an organization that aims to curb gun violence. Brian has served on Ledding Library's Board, been a volunteer at the Milwaukie Center, and is the chair of the Clackamas League of Conservation Voters.

The major issues currently standing before the City are of particular interest to Brian. He says that coming from a planning background, the downtown and riverfront revitalization efforts, and the Milwaukie Middle School acquisition are all issues he is anxious to study.

Because of issues such as these, Brian identifies the next decade of the City's future as incredibly important.

"This is really a great time for Milwaukie," Brian said. "The next decade will be a real turning point. With the prospective Milwaukie Middle School purchase and the downtown and riverfront revitalization efforts, it's a really crucial and really exciting time for our City." ☐

Zoning changes will make Downtown plan reality

Written by Dan Bartlett, City Manager

During 1999 and early 2000, the community met to develop a new vision for downtown Milwaukie and the Willamette Riverfront.

The City hosted five Town Hall meetings to hear from citizens about ways to create more vitality in the downtown, to draw businesses and residents to the downtown and connect the riverfront to downtown.

In the summer of 1999, the City asked citizens to vote at community kiosks on four different downtown/riverfront design options. From this, the City developed a Downtown Land Use Framework Plan. To implement the Plan, the City's Comprehensive Plan, Zoning Ordinance and Zoning Map will all need to be amended to adopt new land use regulations for downtown.

The proposed new regulations and land use zones are drafted to ensure that new development over the next several years on both private property and in the public right-of-way in downtown is high quality and consistent. The new zoning designations will allow for a mixture of uses including Main Street retail, commercial buildings, office buildings, a transit center, a hotel, apartments, condominiums, and townhouses. The designations will also preserve a significant amount of land as parks and open spaces.

The City of Milwaukie held a public open house in May and will hold public hearings on the proposed Downtown Plan and Rezoning project. You are invited to attend the open house to learn more about the regulations and provide input. ☐

Public Works projects build a safer Milwaukie

With summer on the horizon Milwaukie's Public Works crews are preparing for a host of projects that will create safer streets for pedestrians and motorists and will result in heightened fire protection for City residents.

In the Ardenwald and Johnson Creek Neighborhood crews will be installing sidewalks and curbs along Roswell Street in between 32nd and 42nd Avenues. Construction is scheduled to begin in early June, and should be completed by the end of August. A new storm line will also be laid down between 39th and 41st Avenues.

The primary objective of the project is to create safer pedestrian ways for the school children that attend Ardenwald Elementary. Busses do not service Ardenwald Elementary, placing a premium on a network of safe sidewalks.

A pair of waterline projects is scheduled to begin in early June, and should take about 30 to 60 days to complete. The two projects will add about 4,000 feet of line and 10 fire hydrants, which will greatly improve fire protection in the respective areas.

In the Lewelling Neighborhood storm line will be laid along 48th Avenue, Wil-low Street, 50th Avenue and Logus Road.

The other line will run along Ada Lane between Home Avenue and Washington Street and then along Washington from 47th Avenue into the Washing cul de sac.

In July crews will begin an overlay project that will add two inches of asphalt over Olsen Avenue in between 32nd and 42nd Avenues in the Ardenwald Neighborhood. □

Cable changes

Cable channels switched around last month and we want to make sure viewers know where their local channels are located. The Government Access Channel, remains on channel 30, but the Public Access Channel is now located on channel 21.

If you'd like a listing of all the new channels, drop by City Hall and pick one up at the front desk. □

Learn about City's wetland

The Minthorn Wetlands stand as one of Milwaukie's greatest natural resources, but how many residents really know all that much about them?

The City of Milwaukie hopes to improve the numbers on Saturday, July 1, 2000 when it holds a Celebration at the site from 10 a.m. to noon. The Minthorn Wetlands are located near the intersection of 37th and Rail Road Avenues, in the back of the Milwaukie Marketplace.

Guided tours will be available, and for those who would like to learn at their own pace, a series of stations will be situated throughout the site explaining the hydrology of a wetland and the plant and animals that typically inhabit such an environment.

Milwaukie Program Services Coordinator JoAnn Herrigel says the event will be an interesting experience for anyone that participates.

"It's a great learning opportunity for anybody, kids and adults," she said. □

City looking for summer help

Work outside, flex the muscles a little bit and work for the City of Milwaukie this summer.

The City is currently looking for college kids over 18 years old to help with seasonal projects like painting curbs, striping streets and maintaining the grounds and buildings of the City's facilities.

Rick Sherman has been working summers for Milwaukie for four seasons, and he says the flexible schedule is ideal for accommodating his schedule of classes.

Applicants need a valid driver's license and have to pass a drug-screening test prior to being hired.

Interested parties should call Human Resources Assistant Cynthia Nagy at 786-7507, or drop by City Hall for an application. □

Library gears up for summer

Milwaukie's Ledding Library was one of 125 community libraries chosen by the Oregon Library Association (OLA) to receive funding for the "Ticket to Tomorrow" summer reading series for children.

The series includes musical performances, craft activities, magic shows, a marionette play, a Winnie the Pooh Party and story times for preschoolers and toddlers. Drop by the library for a full schedule of activities.

Signups for Summer Reading begin June 1, and all children are invited to participate.

Summer Reading 2000 is made possible by the OLA and is sponsored by the Craig Berkm Family, the Well Fargo Foundation, Oregon Public Broadcasting, the Ore Community Foundation, the Washington Mutual Foundation, and the Friends of Ledding Library. □

Hazardous waste disposal chance Firm relocates

Milwaukie residents will have an opportunity to deposit hazardous household wastes such as cleaning products, paints and pesticides at the City's collection event scheduled for Saturday, June 24, 2000 at Rowe Junior High.

This event will be available on a first come first serve basis. Interested parties should call Program Services Manager JoAnn Herrigel at 786-7508 no earlier than June 7, 2000 to secure a spot.

JoAnn stressed the event is intended to serve as an educational opportunity to inform residents that Metro maintains Hazardous Household Waste facilities that are cheap and easily accessible. ☐

Downtown

On April 11, 2000 the Planning Commission approved a land use application that will bring 100 new employees to the downtown area.

ODS Health Plans will be moving into the old Pendleton Woolen Mills factory at 10505 S.E. 17th Ave., but not before completely gutting the inside and making a handful of building, parking and landscaping improvements.

Andrew Franklin, Vice President Operations for ODS Health Plans, says they're finalizing design plans right now, but that they hope to begin the dramatic remodeling towards fall. The projected completion date is slated for somewhere around April of 2001.

Franklin says their improvements will create a facility that looks "very, very different" and "much more attractive."

"We're going to gut it and start over," he said. "It was a shirt factory and we're going to turn it into an insurance processing office — a very different use."

Street and traffic improvements include a new bus shelter and turning lanes, and curb and sidewalk improvements. ☐

Festival Daze celebration has a new name, new twists

Milwaukie will see some changes at this year's summer fair and festival.

First, there's the name change — this year's celebration is being called "The Milwaukie Bing Cherry Festival."

And according to festival organizer Siri Bernard, this year's event scheduled for June 16, 17 and 18, will include an Art Exhibit, more booths, more people, more games and more fun.

But the mainstays of past celebrations will be back. The Bing Cherry Parade will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 17 and will wind its way down Lake Road and into Downtown Milwaukie. There will also be live entertainment featured throughout the three-day celebration, the skate park will be set up in back of City Hall on 21st Avenue, carnival rides will fill the lawn in front of Milwaukie Junior High and the Ledding Library will be holding its annual book sale at the old Safeway site.

Admission to the festivities is free, but organizers will be asking for donations. Seventy-five percent of the money that's raised will benefit the Annie Ross House, which is a Milwaukie family shelter that assists up to 60 families each year. ☐ survey consultant, Bob Moore, of Moore Information to work on a random sample phone survey of residents and commuters in the corridor.

While the working groups were meeting, the public comment period for the scoping phase of the project was also happening. A series of Open Houses were held throughout the area and public comment was taken from March 10th to May 10th. Call the Metro Transportation Hotline to request a copy of the comments at 797-1900.

Through the summer, planners and working group members will be reviewing the pros and cons of each alternative and preparing the Evaluation Report. The report should be out in the fall, when another opportunity for public comment will begin.

At the end of this process, a group of elected officials from each of the partner agencies will work together to select two or three alternatives for further study.

Stay tuned for further updates as this project evolves. Contact Martha Bennett, 786-7651; Susan Finch at 797-1877; or Michelle Gregory at 786-7539 with questions. ☐

LAKE ROAD

Written by Teresa Bresaw, Lake Road Chair

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: July 20, 7 p.m.

Where: Rowe Middle School

The City has applied for a grant to purchase property in the Lake Road Neighborhood. The state of Oregon has 5 million dollars to disperse throughout all of Oregon for parkland acquisition and development. We're hoping that this grant will be approved.

ESD (Clackamas Education Service District) in their quest to move onto the church site on 40th Avenue and Lake Road is refining their proposal to the City. At some future date there will be another public hearing on this subject. Since traffic on Lake Road will be impacted with ESD's possible move to the church site, I've asked the City for details on financing the multi-modal plan. There are three roads needing serious and expensive improvements. These are Lake, Railroad, and Monroe; and the cost for all three is 6.8 million. There are different scenarios depending on which bond option was chosen. A 15 year bond would be 70 cents per $1,000 of assessed value. The median price of a Portland home is $150,000, so that would be $105 per year for 15 years. A five year bond option at 1.3 million collected per year (for five years) would be $1.16 per $1,000. This would mean $174 annually for 5 years.

There is some possibility that Lake Road will someday make it to the top of Metro's list for road improvements. You may think that the property acquisition required for increased public right of way coupled with the expense may not warrant these street improvements. But at a certain point in time the subtle balance between serious safety hazards and the unwanted cost will necessitate changes to the roads.

We just want to make sure it gets done before there's a fatality or serious injury. I'm about 10 to 12 years from retiring and I don't want to pay for this when I'm retired, let alone now. Maybe we should be more proactive with Metro to get this funded. The City has tried and we're somewhere in the middle of the list. Metro has their own criteria for distributing their funds and if you think it's a good idea to improve the road then you need to contact Metro.

If you want a call to remind you of our next meeting, contact me at 786-4690 and leave your name and number to be added to the call list.

Lake Road residents were out in full force at last year's Festival Parade. If you're interested in participating this year, call Teresa at 786-4690

HECTOR CAMPBELL

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: May 8, 8 p.m.

Where: Hector Campbell Elementary

The Hector Campbell Neighborhood Association continues to serve as a forum for stimulating and educational discussions.

Each meeting features one or two guest speakers, and presentations by the land use chair and city planner. Thanks to Judge Ron Thom, candidate for Clackamas County circuit court judge, for sharing his vision of how to heal our community at the last meeting.

In addition to our monthly presentations, we are seeking ideas and leadership regarding the following:

- Two new park proposals that are close to completion. Now is the time to put our ideas into action.
- Discussions to improve the intersection at Railroad and 37th Avenue will soon begin in earnest.

- Grant money for neighborhood projects is readily available for ways to improve our neighborhood.

"Let's continue to hope that diverse groups can communicate creative ways to resolve funding and development issues (concerning the Milwaukie Junior High.)"

- The City of Milwaukie has proposed an urban forestry task force, and hopefully will propose a task force on the Milwaukie Junior High School site.

Many questions about the Milwaukie Junior High School are finally being addressed thanks to hours of dedicated organizing by civic leaders.

City leaders are slowly responding to their input, and we hope that a compromise can be worked out. Many of us feel that this site is the heart and soul of our downtown and hope that it will serve as a self-supporting inter-generational community center.

This daunting transformation far outweighs the burden of losing this special area. Let's continue to hope that diverse groups can communicate creative ways to resolve funding and development issues.

Our next meeting will feature another guest speaker from the community, land use and transportation plans, and your valuable input.

How about a neighborhood barbecue this summer?

Want to know where the proposed parks are located?

Come find out at our next meeting, which is on the second Monday of the month at 8:00 p.m. at the Hector Campbell Elementary School Library.

HISTORIC MILWAUKIE

Written by Ed Zumwalt, Historic Milwaukie Chair

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: June 8, 7 p.m.

Where: Milwaukie Elementary

It's time to be a little serious in this space, so please bear with me.

Neighborhood Associations are frequently under attack by low membership and a lack of community involvement. I find this ironic when the one constant thread running through our groups is availability: we are always there when needed and are the starting point for almost every positive project in the community.

Our association would like to expand our sphere, embracing the people around us with so much talent to give, but seemingly, so little time to give it.

This is not in any way intended to be a criticism, because we all get taken up in the serious daily routine of family and work. However, it is meant to point out that in a very few hours a year one person can make a decisive, positive impact on the entire community.

Each one of us has an inherent ability or talent that is unique and could be shared with others. Are you into arts and crafts or gardening? These or any multitude of other activities could evolve into a neighborhood activities. Is organizing your strong point? We could use you in a variety of interesting projects. What about history? Any help Sharon Phillips could get for our Oral History Project would be greatly appreciated.

Look around at our Neighborhood. What is the most significant problem that faces us — traffic, noise, potholes? Come to our meeting and tell us.

What is the best feature of our Neighborhood? Our City? Come and tell us.

This is an appropriate time to widen our horizons: Milwaukie is on the verge of an exciting era of revitalization and change, and it is an opportunity the Neighborhood Associations should seize to help mold our City into what we envision.

The downtown core and the Neighborhoods must improve and develop at the same pace, or an imbalance will be created that will overwhelm our infrastructure and, eventually, the livability of our City. We must not let others set the rules and make all of the decisions or our Neighborhood needs will be passed over in favor of special interests. Please join us at our meetings and become involved in our future.

ISLAND STATION

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: June 2, 6:30 p.m.

Where: Milwaukie Grange

Island Station Chair Rick Farasy reported "a packed house" at their May 5, 2000 meeting and wanted to give special thanks to the representatives from the City of Milwaukie and the North Clackamas Parks District who contributed a Friday evening of their own time to the Island Station Neighborhood Association.

At the May 5th meeting attendees put some final touches on the plans for the Elk Rock Island cleanup event that was scheduled for May 20th. Rick said he invited City and Park officials so that a more coordinated plan could be implemented. The objective is to make Spring Park more attractive to Milwaukie residents by clearing away invasive vegetation and establishing a better-defined network of trails.

Residents also discussed their Neighborhood Association's role in the Milwaukie Bing Cherry Festival that's scheduled for June 16, 17 and 18. Rick says a float committee has been formed and that Island Station residents are anxious to participate in Saturday's parade. Rick explains that the float's theme is already set, but that they could still use some volunteers in getting it all ready.

If you'd like to help out, give Rick a call at 786-2437.

And finally, Rick reported that the Oregon Department of Transportation has committed to installing a crosswalk, an alley of curbs, sidewalks and bike lanes that will connect the Island Station Neighborhood to downtown Milwaukie.

Rick said the commitment was a "major step" and thanked Milwaukie staff for its efforts.

In what has turned out to be a model public-private partnership, the City of Milwaukie has been working with the Portland and Western Rail Road in clearing away invasive vegetation and painting over vandalized Rail Road trestles. Here Milwaukie's Steve Campbell (right) and Bud McCune (left) talk with Dave Moffitt (center) of Portland and Western about clearing away black berrybushes that have become deposit areas for illegal dumping in the Island Station Neighborhood. The Rail Road will also paint over the graffiti that mars the trestle spanning McLoughlin Boulevard just south of the Kellogg Creek Treatment Facility.

Forty-one Milwaukie residents came out to help umprove the Outdoor Classroom behind Lewelling Elementary on April 29, 2000.

More than 210 volunteer hours were logged, and the work resulted in constructed tables and benches, the removal of piles of underbrush, and the planting of wildflowers and 25 trees that were donated by Dave Green. Neigh-

We had a large police presence at this month's meeting. Milwaukie's Chief Kanzler, our new police liaison Officer Kevin Krebs, and Portland Officer Fred Wiechmann were all in attendance at our May 9th meeting to discuss Community Policing. The Chief chatted about the programs being implemented in the City, and took questions.

We put forth a slate of officers for next year, and elected Peter Koonce as President, Phil Nelson as Vice President, Joe Campbell as Treasurer, Sherri Campbell as Secretary, and Tom Bowman, and Susan Stone, Board At Large.

Our neighborhood will have several summer projects. The Reading Program, where we give books away and read to children, will be in conjunction with the North Clackamas Park District's recreation program at Ardenwald Park. Volunteers are always welcome.

In August there will be Concerts In the Park, and we will hold our Neighborhood Night Out Event. Dates and time have yet to be determined.

We had an update on the streets being rejuvenated this summer. Olsen is to have a complete overlay, Roswell gets an all new street, and more speed bumps are to be installed on 32nd Avenue.

And remember, we still have bumper stickers available to any neighbor who wants to be an "Official Pace Car." The stickers encourage motorists to slow down.

Michelle explained how the North Clackamas School District's delay on moving out of the Junior High Site has given the City some breathing room to search for more options on how to acquire the property. But more importantly it has given the City the opportunity to work more closely with the community on its wants and desires without the burden of having a limited amount of time to exercise options.

Discussion also turned to the proposed Downtown and Riverfront Development Plan. Most of the discussion centered around the proposed new site
