

City sponsors tribute to September 11th

A blood drive and organ/tissue donation awareness campaign will be held in Milwaukie to commemorate the September 11th tragedy and provide an avenue for area residents to play a vital role in the nation's ability to care for its people.

The blood drive and donor awareness campaign will be held Wednesday, Sept. 25, 2002 from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Waldorf School (Old Milwaukie Middle School).

The blood drive is a partnership between the Red Cross, the Oregon Tissue and Organ Donor Program and the City of Milwaukie.

Nationwide shortages of blood are commonplace, especially in the summer months when summertime activities lead to an increase in accidents; therefore, increasing trauma related blood usage. Every two seconds someone needs blood nationwide and as many as three patients can benefit from a single donation.

The Oregon Tissue and Organ Donor Program will also be at the event to spread the word about the importance of

City protects water resources

In order to create healthy streams for fish and the wildlife that inhabit stream corridors, the Planning Department is drafting regulations that will protect, preserve and create opportunities for future restoration of the City's water resources.

As Planning Director John Gessner explains, the plain fact is that much of the City is already built out and habitat surrounding water resources has already been impacted.

But John says the regulations under review will prevent further degradation and create an environment for restoration for future generations.

For example, the regulations call for maintaining buffers around streams and around delineated wetlands. These buffers will not be established retroactively, action will not be taken against development that already exists within the buffer zone. However, should a property

Milwaukie's Local Leaders

Sometimes persistence pays off...just ask Ardenwald Neighborhood resident Dorothy Snowhill.

For years, more than 25 of them, she's been entangled in a struggle with the City and Providence Milwaukie Hospital over the traffic, especially speeding and siren-blaring ambulance traffic, that has been using the street she lives on to access the hospital.

The primary point of contention was whether or not the Hospital promised ambulances would not use 36th Avenue when it opened for operation back in the 70's. Since then, ambulances have been using 36th Avenue and the City has been allowing the practice.

Through the years Dorothy requested public records to back her contentions and met with City Staff and Hospital administrators all with little success. But recently, Dorothy says she altered her strategy.

"Finally, finally I joined my Neighborhood Association and after two years of getting things in order Peter Koonce, the former Chair, and Carlotta Collette, the present Chair, went to bat for me and things started to get done," Dorothy said.

With some backing from her

Dorothy Snowhill spends a great deal of time and takes a great deal of pride in her garden.

Neighborhood Association, and with sympathetic administrators at both the hospital and the City, a resolution was reached.

As part of the conditions of approval for its expanded Emergency Room, Providence Milwaukie is submitting to the Planning Commission that ambulances will no longer use 36th Avenue to access the Hospital. The Planning Commission will review the proposal at it's Sept. 10th meeting.

Dorothy said she's never thought about giving up.

"I've said that I don't intend to give this up until I die, and I don't feel like going anyplace just yet," Dorothy said with a laugh. "So what do you know about luck?"

Or persistence, for that matter. ☘

Parks levy to be discussed at PARB

Those interested in learning how City parks, trails and open spaces will be maintained in the future are encouraged to attend Milwaukie's Park and Recreation Board (PARB) meeting set for Sept. 24, 2002, in City Hall at 7 p.m.

North Clackamas Parks and Recreation District Director Mike Henley will present information on the upcoming levy the County plans to put on the November ballot. The Clackamas County Board of Commissioners agreed to put a five-year local option tax for park operations and improvements before voters in the District on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The measure asks for a 23-cent per $1,000 of assessed value to maintain parks and facilities; allow for repairs and renovations; and continue to provide programs and services for all ages at 2002-03 levels.

For more information please call Milwaukie Program Services Coordinator JoAnn Herrigel at (503) 786-7508. ☎

Councilor Mary King exchanges gifts with students from Iwaki, Japan, Milwaukie's Sister City. The students visited City Hall on August 6, 2002.

City Manager changes strategy, pursues levy

In June City Manager Mike Swanson advised Council to adopt a resolution proposing the annexation of the City to Clackamas County Fire District No. 1 to raise funding that would help the City meet next year's projected budget shortfall of $1.2 million.

The strategy was fairly involved, tying the budgetary problem with an annexation issue. Hearing concerns from the citizen-based Budget Advisory Committee and from Milwaukie residents, Mike and Mayor James Bernard scheduled a dozen meetings with a variety of community members. After learning their concerns, mainly that the annexation strategy might be too complex and too burdensome to taxpayers to garner voter approval, the Advisory Committee, Mike and the Mayor decided to postpone further work on the annexation proposal and to recommend that the Council place a local option tax on the ballot seeking voter approval of a local option tax to raise property taxes.

On August 20, 2002 City Council voted to place a four-year local option tax in the amount of $1.10 per $1,000 of real property assessed value on the November ballot.

The local option tax, if passed, would raise approximately $1,200,000 in its first year and would likely allow continuation of City services at the level currently offered. Property taxes would go up for the four years the levy will be in place, with the amount of additional tax being determined by the value of the property.

If the levy is not approved, the City anticipates a General Fund shortfall of approximately $1,200,000, which would require budget reductions, including a reduction of staffing.

The General Fund operates a number of primary City functions such as police, fire, public involvement (including neighborhood services and the public access studio), code enforcement, planning and administrative functions. In addition, it provides 49% of the funding for the Ledding Library. Should the levy fail, budget cuts will be made, reducing staff positions and City services.

Mike will be holding open office hours at City Hall between 9 and 11 a.m. on September 11 and 25, and on October 2, 9, and 23.

To contact Mike, phone (503) 786-7501. ☎

Help plan City's growth

The City's Planning Commission goes a long way in determining how the City grows.

If you're interested in setting the tone for what Milwaukie looks like in the future, please call City Recorder Pat DuVal at (503) 786-7502 for an application to become a member of the City's Planning Commission.

There is currently one vacancy on the Commission, and commissioners are asked to serve four year terms. ☎

Month for conservation

Because of the continuing dry weather and hotter temperatures the City's water supply is drawn on heavily during the month of September, which is why the Water Department asks residents to please conserve water whenever and wherever they can.

Residents can conserve in a myriad of ways: by doing only full loads of wash, turning the water off when brushing their teeth, tightening leaky faucets and running the dishwasher only when it's full.

Police watch crosswalks

In response to a series of complaints lodged by Downtown pedestrians, Milwaukie Police Officers staged an operation in which a marked pedestrian would enter a Downtown crosswalk and vehicles would be monitored to make sure motorists yielded to the pedestrian.

More than just a few disregarded the safety of the pedestrian, and the law.

The law states that motorists need to yield to a pedestrian even if the pedestrian is standing near the crosswalk preparing to enter the street.

Officer Larry Giddings lead the operation and he said the intent was to educate, not punish.

"We're not out there just to pinch people, we want to do some education," Giddings said.

With funding garnered from their record-setting summer Book Sale, the Friends of the Ledding Library will purchase eight Internet stations and word processors for the Ledding Library.

These new stations will make the Library's Internet service faster and much more reliable. In addition, users will now be able to use floppy disks on both the word processors and the Internet so material can be saved in a personal and

The City Code Corner

Overhanging trees and shrubs cover street signs, block sidewalks, and inhibit emergency vehicles like fire engines and ambulances and City services like street sweepers. For these reasons and others, Milwaukie's Municipal Code outlines regulations to encourage property owners to be mindful of trimming back shrubs and trees planted on their property or abutting right of way to maintain safe conditions for pedestrians, bicyclists and motorists.

The Code stipulates trees and shrubs need to be trimmed back eight feet above sidewalks and 12 feet above any part of the street.

If a violation is found the City will contact the property owner and discuss a maintenance solution.

Those with any question about this ordinance, or any others, are asked to call the City's Code Compliance Division at (503) 786-7545.

New rate structure takes effect

Since July 2002, sewer bills have been calculated using Phase II of the new sewer rate structure. The goal of the volume-based rate structure is to charge customers in proportion to how much they're using the sewer system rather than charging everyone the same fixed rate.

City Council decided to change the rate from the previous flat rate in order to create a more equitable system of charging the City's customers based on water consumption.

The sewer charge is based on a fixed charge plus a volume charge. The volume charge is calculated by using the winter average of water used during the winter months of December 2001- March 2002. Just a reminder – summer water usage (watering your lawn, garden, washing your car, etc.) does not affect your sewer charge.

Brochures further explaining Phase II of the volume-based sewer rate structure are being inserted into City Utility Bills. If you have any questions, contact (503) 786-7525.

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: September 12, 7 p.m.

Where: Linwood Elementary

(Located 11909 SE Linwood Ave.)

The swing back into the typical school/work milieu has begun again in earnest.

The Linwood Neighborhood is looking for those neighbors/citizens who are willing to create an even more enjoyable living environment for themselves and their families. The next meeting will be Thursday, September 12, at the Linwood Elementary School library. Ayla Montgomery will present her credentials for Milwaukie City Council Position #2 (Mary King is stepping down).

Also, we will hold elections for all positions on the neighborhood board (Chair, Vice-Chair, Treasurer, and Secretary/Scribe). These positions do not take more than a few hours per month of commitment and can produce a wealth of information about your city.

The Neighborhood Association will also host a picnic following Linwood Elementary's annual Neighborhood Parade on Saturday, Sept. 14, (approx. Noon - 2 p.m.). There will be food, door prizes and entertainment. Come join the fun and meet your neighbors!

Increasing the pool of viable donors could increase the available amount of tissue and organs, resulting in a reduction of the waiting period for such donations.

The City of Milwaukie has set a challenging goal for this event and is actively seeking people willing and able to donate. Please call (503) 786-7568 and demonstrate a personal tribute to September 11th.

Happy Birthday Milwaukie!

Plans for celebrating Milwaukie's 100th birthday are in the works and its time for you to step forward. There are several events and activities scheduled to happen throughout the year 2003. Take a look and volunteer yourself and a friend to help out with something:

Opening Ceremony to take place at City Hall on February 4, 2003 – people are needed to help coordinate the opening ceremony. Contact Jim Newman – (503) 654-4502.

Volunteer Challenge: 100 hours for the next 100 years – Community groups and organizations are taking up specific projects such as design of a touring City Parade Float, a Centennial Quilt, a Centennial Commemorative Plate and more! Contact Kathy Rose - (503) 655-3120.

Festival 2003 – Next year's summer celebration will be an event to remember with many activities and events occurring throughout the third week of June. Coordinators, Performers and Sponsors are needed. Contact Ed Zumwalt – (503) 654-2493

7 Neighborhoods and 100 Trees – Each Neighborhood is going to select a project that will celebrate its unique history and have lasting impact. There will also be an effort to plant 100 new trees in Milwaukie. Contact Kathy Buss –

(503) 786-5148.

Education Projects that connect Youth with Seniors – Local historians and educators are needed to team students up with seniors on class projects, essay contests, scavenger hunts and oral history projects. Contact Madalaine Bohl – (503) 659-5267.

Leaving a Legacy for Future Milwaukians – The goal is to improve Milwaukie's front room by creating a riverfront park that can be enjoyed by all citizens for years to come. Contact JoAnn Herrigel (503) 786-7508.

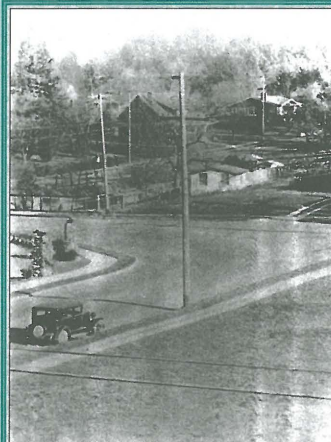

And if you don't see it here, you may need to step forward and be ready to lead – Contact the Hotline if you have an idea for the Centennial – (503) 786-7595 or Email at centennial@ci.milwaukie.or.us.

Festival celebrates Johnson Creek restoration efforts

The Johnson Creek Watershed Council will celebrate the efforts of all the people and groups who have made a difference for Johnson Creek at the "Springwater Festival" set for Saturday, Sept. 28, 2002 at Gresham Main City Park from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Festival will feature live music, food, raffles, prizes and a series of interactive booths that both entertain and educate visitors about the many ecological features and benefits Johnson Creek provides.

Organizers estimate more than 4,000 people will attend the Festival, as it will be held in conjunction with Gresham's Teddy Bear Parade, the city's annual summer celebration.

Those interested in lending a hand in helping to prepare for the Festival are encouraged to contact the Watershed Council at (503) 239-3932.

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: Sept. 10, 6:30 p.m.

Where: Ardenwald Elementary, (Located at 8905 SE 36th Ave.)

The summer is winding down, and the Ardenwald Johnson Creek Neighborhood Association is getting ready for its first meeting of autumn – September 10th, 6:30 p.m. at Ardenwald School.

The Operating Levy on the November Ballot will be at the top of the agenda. This is a complex but critical issue for everyone in Milwaukie. The City is anticipating facing a budget shortfall of $1.2 million in the next year and has placed an operating levy on the November ballot. Mayor Jim Bernard and City Manager Mike Swanson will attend the September 10th meeting to provide information and answer questions about the levy.

Johnson Creek Boulevard Phase III is moving ahead, but not without ongoing input from residents along the boulevard and elsewhere. In July, we convened a "summit" of key people from the cities of Milwaukie and Portland, including transportation, planning and watershed protection staff. Representatives from Southeast Uplift and from the Bicycle Transportation Alliance joined us. Our goal was to brainstorm potential ways to slow and reduce traffic on the boulevard. Narrowing the width of the planned reconstructed street from 43.5 feet to 40 feet has long been viewed as the best means to slow traffic and preserve old trees and residents' front yards. Other options include adding raised pedestrian crosswalks at bus stops and elsewhere, increasing the number of stop signs, or incorporating a raised multipurpose (combined bicycle/pedestrian) walkway rather than separate bike lanes and sidewalks. The meeting seemed positive, and Portland's Project Manager for Phase III, Dan Layden, is continuing to meet with residents and others to see what changes can be made. We'll have a more complete update in October.

Neighborhood Night Out at Ardenwald Park was a rousing success. More than 300 people ate free hot dogs and watermelon, danced to the hopping sounds of the Oregon Polka Beats and generally had a great time. Representatives from the Clackamas Fire District provided free bike helmets for neighborhood kids, and the neighborhood association gave away free books (leftovers from our very successful summer reading project). It was a huge community party! Plan to join us next year.

Young and old enjoyed the Ardenwald National Night Out event held Aug. 6th.

ISLAND STATION

NEXT MEETING'S INFO:

When: Sept. 19, 6:30 p.m.

Where: Milwaukie Grange (12015 SE 22nd Ave.)

For the past three years the Island Station Neighborhood has thrown one of the summer's greatest block parties and this year wasn't any different.

Neighbors streamed in to enjoy barbecue ribs and chicken and the many delicious salads, sides and desserts neighbors brought in for the potluck. And as if that weren't enough, residents were entertained with live music and fire fighters from Clackamas Fire District No. 1 showed up and let Island Station's youngsters get behind the wheel of their fire engine.

Island Station Chair Rick Farasy thanks all who attended and to all who made their much appreciated and needed contributions.

The Neighborhood Association will get back to business at its Sept. 19 meeting where it plans to discuss the ODOT McLoughlin sidewalk improvement project, Spring Park and the property at Wren Street and 21st Avenue.

Stephanie Chan loads up on the ribs at Island Station's Block Party held August 15th.

The City recently took possession of the three-lot property, and will be conducting a public process to learn what the residents would like to see happen at the location.

It was recently brought to my attention that our City fathers are again trying to get rid of our revered sewage treatment plant. This time on the assumption it will make our Riverfront more valuable and facilitate development.

Don't these people ever learn? It was just recently that we went through this same battle, fighting the forces of greed to save our sewage plant.

In the first place, the Riverfront is vastly more valuable with the plant on site. The grandeur of its lines, the overall architectural beauty, make it a natural anchor and tremendous magnet for developers. It merely has to be marketed correctly with a nose for the most appropriate fit.

As a tourist attraction for north Clackamas County, it is second to none: approximately 45,000 cars pass the site every weekday. Getting them to stop and smell the roses is the main problem.

What about our Centennial Plans for toilet seat horseshoes on the site? The projected money-making capabilities of this competition are enormous.

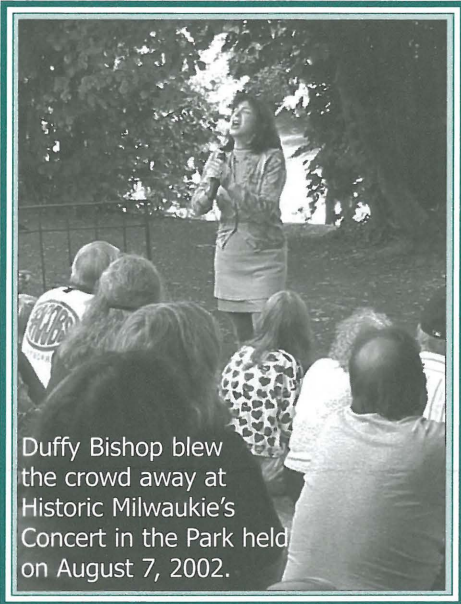

What about plans for a plumbing museum on the site? This would be a unique facility, featuring commode, plumbing, and sewer systems throughout history. This is a promotional niche that for some reason, few cities have considered, but it has enormous tourism potential. I can just smell the money.

If Clackamas County approves moving the plant it is only to appease area cities that have their eyes on our prize.

Without the historic Milwaukie Middle School in our possession, the treatment plant stands as the only thing we have left and it must be protected at any cost. The threat to this landmark we love and cherish must be stopped.

To this end, I am reorganizing Save Our Sewage Treatment Plant. Readers will be advised of fund-raisers and campaign activities in the near future.

This is my story about the house in our Neighborhood that had become a public nuisance and how the Neighbors and City personnel worked together to get it cleaned up and saved some animal's lives in the process.

The house was vacant for years this February, when the former tenants returned. Within a month an awful smell engulfed the entire house and yard. As warmer weather came, the smell worsened and started extending beyond the property into surrounding yards. The flies that were all around the house started spreading into nearby yards as well. Longtime renters next to the house even decided to move out.

Feeling frustrated and helpless by this point, the neighbors knew something needed to be done. There is an article that runs in the Pilot called "The City Code Corner" that listed Steve Campbell, the Code Compliance Coordinator, as the contact for problems like this. The neighbors decided to contact the Code Compliance Division.

After listening to the complaints, Steve checked out the house himself. When he walked towards the backyard, he agreed there was a problem. He took immediate action and inspected the house the following day. Because of the inspection and subsequent notice of violation to the property owner, the tenant was forced to move to a rental property that didn't allow pets. Investigating complaints at the new property, police found dogs caged in crates. Animal abuse charges were filed against the tenant. The story received coverage in newspapers and on television.

Last month, the cleanup of the house started and at the time of this writing is now nearing completion. The animals that survived are healthy and happy in foster homes. Who knows what might have happened if not for the concerned citizens and dedicated City employees. It's truly amazing what we can accomplish for our community when we work together.

The fun-filled days of summer are rapidly coming to an end. Days filled with picnics, vacations, water skiing and the like will now take a back seat to other upcoming activities and issues that will consume our thoughts for the next few months.

For example, there are some large issues facing our City today that warrant our evaluation and consideration in pursuit of maintaining a standard of livability our residents are comfortable with.

As a member of the Budget Committee, I and others have been trying to determine options to respond to next year's anticipated $1,200,000 budget deficit.

On August 20, 2002 City Council decided to place a local option tax levy on the November ballot, which, if passed, would supply additional funding. The levy is a four-year local option tax in the amount of $1.10 per $1,000 of real property assessed value.

The light rail issue is still alive and a decision on what route to begin with, McLoughlin or 1-205 Corridor, still remains up in the air. It appears more meetings and much more discussion is required on this subject before finalization.

September, vacations end, school starts back up, so watch out for the kids. Please slow down when driving through the Neighborhood.

Our meetings resume in September, and as chair of the Neighborhood Association, I look forward to seeing everyone in attendance. I want to hear your concerns and ideas.

Well there are some big issues coming up soon. First, the City is projecting a $1.2 million dollar short fall in next year's budget. The Budget Advisory Committee has been meeting and working on the issue all summer. The two main options are to either pass a levy in November to raise taxes or to cut services from their current level.

Council decided to place a four-year, $5.2 million local-option levy in November which, if approved, would raise taxes by an additional $1.10 for every $1,000 of assessed property value beginning July 1, 2003.

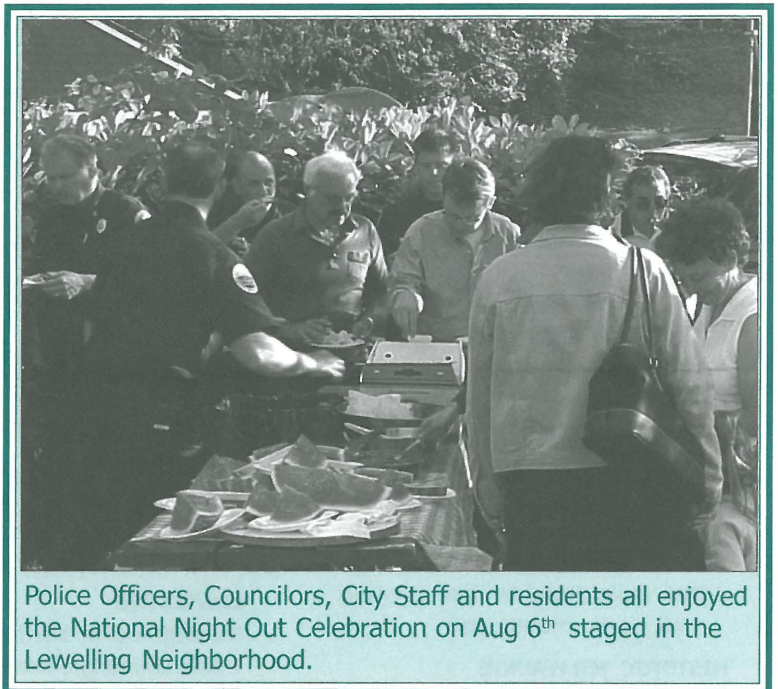

I challenge you to come to the meeting of your Neighborhood and hear from the City leaders and citizen board mem-

In addition, another matter requiring our attention is the development of the old downtown Safeway property.

Local Neighborhood problems must also be addressed in the coming months. So, take a couple of hours out of your busy schedule and help your Neighborhood Association deal with these issues.

Lewelling's meetings are held on the first Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Seth Lewelling Elementary School library on 53rd Avenue and Logus Street. Come and take an active part in your Neighborhood and City affairs. Learn more about what is going on around you.

I want to thank everyone who came to the neighborhood summer picnic and to those who unselfishly gave of their time to help with this activity.

bers to learn what this levy could mean to you.

Other issues that will be addressed in the future are:

- Light Rail and the environmental impacts statement will be out this fall and winter.
- King Road Super Center and plans for that property.
- The development of the McFarland site (the large triangle of land behind Albertson's and across the railroad tracks).
- North Main Street Project [formally the old Safeway site in downtown Milwaukie]
- Master plan for Homewood Park
- Election of Neighborhood Officers

And as always there are your concerns about traffic, Neighborhood nuisances, crime and general concerns in the Neighborhood.

So do your part and attend the meetings, ask questions and bring your ideas on how to make this Neighborhood and your City the best place to live!
